

MUCK RACK

Barbara A. Res is an attorney and professional engineer. She started her career in construction in 1972 in New York City. She worked for electrical contractors, a general contractor and then, developers, most notably Donald Trump, Leonard Stern and Steven Roth. She was the vice president in charge of construction of the renowned Trump Tower. Res spent many years working for Trump and has written extensively about her experience with him. From being quite close on the Trump Tower project, their relationship changed as Trump became richer and more famous and eventually, she left his employ because she could no longer tolerate him. She has authored many articles about him.

Res wrote a memoir, "All Alone on the 68th Floor: How One Woman Changed the Face of Construction" which chronicles her life from being a stellar Math student steered into teaching because she was a girl, through engineering school and working in construction offices and work sites. She endured relentless harassment and it impacted her psyche and her life.

Res does a lot of public speaking about her experiences and sexual harassment. She is an inspirational leader, who injects a sense of humor into everything she does.

Res has also written about the problems with women in STEM fields, especially engineering.

Res is the proud mother of 32 year old twins, billed by her as her greatest accomplishment.